

Architecture and the People

Collection Editor: Robert Adam

Description

How architecture relates to the everyday life and aspirations of people in the context of a widely perceived disjunction between architects and the public. This will include sections on an analysis of the social background, a description of the issues, and case studies of activism.

About the Editor

Founder of ADAM Architecture, the largest firm specialising in traditional design in Europe. Visiting professor of urban design at the University of Strathclyde. Practicing architect and masterplanner. Author of six books and numerous papers and articles on architecture and urban design history and theory.

Submission Requirements

All chapters submitted should conform to the grammar and formatting guidelines provided by Cambridge Scholars Publishing, which can be viewed here: <https://www.cambridgescholars.com/pages/forms-guidelines>;

Unless agreed with the Editor prior to submission, referencing should be in Chicago;

Any work submitted for publication should be free of copyright restrictions and a statement should be submitted in support of this;

Contributions should be scholarly rather than anecdotal or unverifiable;

Contributions must be wholly in English, excluding footnotes, appendices and short extracts for translation;

While we will perform pre-press evaluations on the collection, we do not provide full proofreading services, so we ask that works are submitted to us in their final, 'ready-to-go' form.
