

Essays on the Cultural and Historical Heritage of Colonialism: Interrogating the Postcolony

Collection Editor: Kenneth Usongo

Description

The authors contend that since most of the countries in notably Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, and the Middle East secured their independence from European and American colonial powers, it appears that these ex-colonies still remain laboratories for Western political and cultural ideologies rather than autonomous philosophies that align with their realities.

About the Editor

Kenneth Usongo holds doctorate degrees in English from the University of Denver and the University of Yaoundé 1. He is the author of four books and twenty-seven essays in journals and edited collections. He is an associate professor of English at Texas College.

Submission Requirements

All chapters submitted should conform to the grammar and formatting guidelines provided by Cambridge Scholars Publishing, which can be viewed here: <https://www.cambridgescholars.com/pages/forms-guidelines>;

Unless agreed with the Editor prior to submission, referencing should be in Chicago;

Any work submitted for publication should be free of copyright restrictions and a statement should be submitted in support of this;

Contributions should be scholarly rather than anecdotal or unverifiable;

Contributions must be wholly in English, excluding footnotes, appendices and short extracts for translation;

While we will perform pre-press evaluations on the collection, we do not provide full proofreading services, so we ask that works are submitted to us in their final, 'ready-to-go' form.

You can view open projects at the link below:

<https://www.cambridgescholars.com/pages/guest-edited-collections>

