

Foreign Direct Investment, Economic Growth and Development

Collection Editor: Manuchehr Irandoust

Description

FDI has been increasingly regarded as one of the important characteristics of the world economy and an engine of economic growth through perceived benefits in terms of the injection of capital, technology, innovation, and knowledge. The aim of this collection is to bring together researchers in different fields of Finance, Economics, Management, and International Business to discuss these topics.

About the Editor

Manuchehr Irandoust has been a full professor of Economics at Örebro University, Halmstad University, and Kristianstad University in Sweden. He received his MS, MA., and PhD from Uppsala University and Gothenburg University, respectively. He is serving as a member of the Australian Economic Papers editorial board. His current research interests include International Finance and Open Economy Macroeconomics.

Submission Requirements

All chapters submitted should conform to the grammar and formatting guidelines provided by Cambridge Scholars Publishing, which can be viewed here: <https://www.cambridgescholars.com/pages/forms-guidelines>;

Unless agreed with the Editor prior to submission, referencing should be in Chicago;

Any work submitted for publication should be free of copyright restrictions and a statement should be submitted in support of this;

Contributions should be scholarly rather than anecdotal or unverifiable;

Contributions must be wholly in English, excluding footnotes, appendices and short extracts for translation;

While we will perform pre-press evaluations on the collection, we do not provide full proofreading services, so we ask that works are submitted to us in their final, 'ready-to-go' form.
