

The Contemporary Person in the Changing World

Collection Editor: Jan Kłos

Description

This book seeks to prove that only an integrated being can stand up to the challenges of the age. They come from the changing structure of society, a society that is constantly on the move. Now which elements are constant and which undergo transformation without any danger to the integrity of the human person?

About the Editor

Jan Kłos, PhD, studied philosophy and English at the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin. In 1987, he obtained his MA degree in English, and in 1998 his PhD degree in philosophy. In 2007, he obtained his post-doctoral degree (habilitation) and in 2019 he was made full professor. He is interested in moral questions, political and economic theories that affect the human person. He is particularly interested in defining the right ethos for the human being to develop all his and her capacities. The question of which ethos is conducive to this end and which is not is of utmost importance for the editor. He has authored numerous books and papers, including The Claim for Secularisation as a Contemporary Utopia, "Markets & Morality," vol. 10, no 1 (Spring 2007), for which he was awarded the Michael Novak Award.

Submission Requirements

All chapters submitted should conform to the grammar and formatting guidelines provided by Cambridge Scholars Publishing, which can be viewed here: <https://www.cambridgescholars.com/pages/forms-guidelines>;

Unless agreed with the Editor prior to submission, referencing should be in Chicago;

Any work submitted for publication should be free of copyright restrictions and a statement should be submitted in support of this;

Contributions should be scholarly rather than anecdotal or unverifiable;

Contributions must be wholly in English, excluding footnotes, appendices and short extracts for translation;

While we will perform pre-press evaluations on the collection, we do not provide full proofreading services, so we ask that works are submitted to us in their final, 'ready-to-go' form.
