

Transnationalism Facing the State Control: Limits of Transnational Action and Networks in a Re-localizing World

Collection Editors: Ali Ari and Merve Ozdemirkiran-Embel

Description

This book project aims to contribute to the recent debate on the state's inclusion into the transnational field through different cases such as the control mechanisms of the state on the actions of NGOs, on the organization of international migration, the impact of state orientations on the global economy and economic agents.

About the Editors

Ali ARI received his PhD (2009) in economics from Toulon University. He became an Associate Professor of Economics in 2015.
