

Understanding Risks and Crises Through Media

Collection Editor: Bahar Ayoz

Description

Health risks, nuclear risks, natural disasters and war risks surrounds us and we want to minimize these risks. Yet, these risks are as important as the media's presentation of these risks. For example, news stories which claims that weapons of mass destruction exist in a country can cause people to worry, as well as legitimizing a country's foreign policy. And the media coverage of health news may cause excessive concern. Therefore, this book will focus on how media cover risks and its consequence
