

GLOBAL LEARNING AT SMALL INSTITUTIONS: Diverse Models and Creative Solutions

Collection Editor: Jann Purdy, PhD

Contact Email: purd6219@pacificu.edu

Description:

Small liberal arts colleges face unique challenges integrating international curricula and global learning. However, those same challenges, including limitations on staff, resources, and administration, can often inspire creative solutions. This volume offers models for diverse, effective approaches to providing global learning curriculum, and instruction to undergraduates at small institutions.

What Should the Submitted Chapters Consider?

Proposed chapter topics might include first-year study abroad, faculty-led programs, novel exchange models, global learning space design, online exchanges (COIL), internationalizing the curriculum, increasing and diversifying participation, and community engagement. Submissions should include a detailed description of the global learning initiative, steps taken to develop the program, learning outcomes or goals of the initiative, challenges faced and overcome, conclusions, and evaluation of the transferability and applicability of the initiative.

About the Editor:

Jann Purdy is Professor of French and Chair of International Studies at Pacific University, Oregon. She edited Language beyond the Classroom (2018), a volume addressing service-learning for world language programs at several universities and colleges. Dr Purdy created a program in intercultural communication at Pacific University, and co-developed the Global Scholars Program, a global-learning curriculum.
